11. INFORMATION REQUEST PROCEDURE

Any person that requires information for the exercise or protection of any rights may request information from a private body.

Personal requester: In relation to a personal requester, we will voluntarily provide the requested information, or give access to any record with regard to the requester's personal information without the requester having to pay an access fee, but the prescribed fees for reproduction of the information requested will be charged.

The requester must fulfil the prerequisite requirements for access in terms of the Act, including payment of the relevant fees.

- The requester must use the prescribed form to make the request for access to a record. A request form is available from our offices.
- The request must be made to the Information Officer named in Section 2 above. This request must be made to the address, fax number or electronic mail address of the business.
- The requester must provide sufficient detail on the request form to enable the Information Officer to identify the record and the requester. The requester should also indicate which form of access is required.
- The requester should indicate if any other manner should be used to inform the requester. If this is the case, please furnish the necessary particulars to be so informed.
- The requester must identify the right that is sought to be exercised or to be protected and must provide an explanation of why the requested record is required for the exercise or protection of that right.

- If a request is made on behalf of another person, the requester must submit proof of the capacity in which the requester is making the request to the satisfaction of the Information Officer.
- The prescribed request fee must be attached.

30 days response: We will respond to your request within 30 days of receiving the request by indicating whether your request for access has been granted or denied, unless the request contains considerations which may require an extension of this term.

60 days response: The 30-day period within which we must decide whether to grant or refuse the request, may be extended for a further period of up to a further 30 days if the request is for a large amount/ number of information, or the request requires a search for information held at another office and the information cannot reasonably be obtained within the original 30 day period. Failure to respond to the requester within the thirty-day period constitutes a deemed refusal of the request.

All the information listed above should be provided, failing which the process will be delayed while the private body requests such additional information. The prescribed time periods will not commence until all pertinent information has been furnished.

The Information Officer will take all reasonable steps to find a record that has been requested. If the record cannot be found or does not exist, the Information Officer will notify the requester by way of affidavit or affirmation that it is not possible to give access to the record. This is deemed to be a request refusal. If the record is later found, the requester will be given access if the request would otherwise have been granted.

IF THE REQUEST IS GRANTED:

the notification will state the applicable access fee required to be paid, together with the procedure to be followed should the requester wish to apply to court against this fee, and the form in which access will be given.

IF THE REQUEST IS DECLINED:

the notification will include adequate reasons for the decision, together with the relevant provisions of the Act relied upon, and provide the procedure to be followed should the requester want to apply to court against the decision.

Section 59 provides that the Information Officer may sever a record and grant access only to that portion to which the law does not prohibit access.

If access is granted, access must be given in the form that is reasonably required by the requester, or if the requester has not identified a preference, in a form reasonably determined by the Information Officer.
